Salafi jihadi armed groups and conflict (de-)escalation. The case of Ahrar al-Sham in Syria

Berghof Foundation

Case Study Report, 2019

In the Syrian civil war, the Salafi jihadi armed group Ahrar al-Sham was one of the largest and most powerful non-state armed groups. This report outlines the development of Ahrar al-Sham and explores the conditions that led to its de-escalation and analyses as a second step the role and challenges of dialogue engagement.
